RANDALL MAY REGAIN COMMAND OF LINER

Suspended, Then Cleared, in Failure to Rescue.

Capt. A. B. Randall, formerly skipper of the United States Mall Lines steam-ship Hudson, who was suspended be-cause he did not go to the help of three men in a disabled motorboat off Am-brose Channel Lightship last month, and was exonerated by the Federal steam-boat inspectors, may be reinstated in command of the liner, now due here, and may take her overseas on her next crip.

Capt. Randall had refused to submit himself to the inquisition of the Shipping Board after his exoneration. Since then he has admitted his mistake and will be examined soon. He has a good record and is an efficient ship master, and this will go far toward restoring him to favor.

Mr. Saxe said that as the Board has received the benefit of the repairs, it should pay the bills. Discussing the effects of Judge Martin T. Manton's order substituting bankruptcy proceedings for substituting bankruptcy proceedings for the receivership in equity Mr. Saxe said:

"The Mail must now file its schedule setting forth whom it conceives to be its creditors and what it deems to be its creditors of the Mail, but it may develop that it has none, because at least 90 per cent of the creditors have claims for work or material turnished to the boats themselves, and inasmuch as the Shipping Board took over the boats and received the benefit of such work and materials the Government obviously should pay these claims.

"The Post Office Department owes the receivers about $125,000 for mail actually carried. The company also asserts substantial claims against the Shipping Board, on the other hand, asserts large counter claims. The Mail has assets. Its quick assets are less than $100,000; but in addition to the May and Greece, via Naples; also parced post mails for Great Britain, Ireland, Slam, Cyprus, Ceylon and Straits Scitlements (other countries, via the substantial claims against the France and Canada, Steams Board; but the Shipping Board, on the other hand, asserts large counter claims.
